

"Dear Valued Customer,

In response to the upcoming Beijing Olympics and the subsequent polluting plant closure announcements made by the Chinese government, Fox Electronics would like to issue our formal response on this issue.

Our production facilities are outside the announced radius of the planned plant closures by the Chinese government. Further to that point the manufacturing processes in which quartz crystals are manufactured are deemed non polluting.

Fox Electronics from a manufacturing and service delivery view does not anticipate any service interruption to our customers during this period. Our only concern would be in the logistics side as the Chinese government has stated that transportation components may be affected during this period. To that point, I would like to suggest advanced forecasting and PO placement for our planning purposes to ensure a seamless service delivery model on your behalf.

Please forward this email to your internal work cell and buying groups for their clarification. If you have any questions whatsoever please do not hesitate to contact me directly.

Best Regards

Herbert W. Chaney
